

Nation Paying Tribute to U. S. Working Man

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation paid its annual respects to the U. S. working man today. But much of the Labor Day tribute was coupled with renewed pleas for action to oust hoodlums and racketeering union leaders from the labor movement.

Congress also was rebuked for rejecting legislation aimed at curbing shady tactics underscored by the Senate Rackets Committee in its investigation of labor-management relations.

At the same time, Congress got a new invitation from President Eisenhower to get busy at its next session and enact laws to halt such abuses.

Eisenhower, vacationing at Newport, R. I., said in a Labor Day message Sunday:

"The members of employer and employee organizations have the right to demand from their leaders and administrators complete honesty, integrity, trustworthiness and loyalty."

The President didn't specifically mention the labor control proposals he recommended to the recently adjourned 85th Congress.

But in urging guarantees to protect the nation's working men and women from improper labor-management practices, Eisenhower's statement was plainly an invitation to Congress to pass legislation along those lines.

Secretary of Labor James Mitchell said he deeply regretted that Congress didn't act this year to curb racketeering and dictatorship in labor unions.

"I have every hope that the succeeding Congress will see fit to do so," Mitchell said in a statement. "Until such help is available, however, labor's own efforts must continue."

In another Labor Day statement, Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler praised cloak-and-suit efforts by unions, saying:

"Courageous labor leadership moved swiftly, without fear or favor, to meet its own internal problems and thus maintain the integrity of the labor movement."

Fire Insurance Rates to Increase

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—General fire insurance rates increased in Arkansas today for the first time in 15 years.

State Insurance Commissioner Harvey Combs said a mandatory $50 deductible clause also would be written into all new extended coverage windstorm and hail damage policies.

Combs said the $50 deductible clause was added to offset practically prohibitive rates to which insurance companies under law would be entitled.

"Continuing year around wind and hail losses have now practically brought extended coverage insurance to the same point as automobile collision coverage Combs said.

He said Arkansas law entitled stock fire insurance companies to earn a five per cent underwriting profit, but that in the period 1952-56 the companies showed a net underwriting loss of almost 4 per cent.

UN Secretary Opens Atoms, Peace Talks

GENEVA (AP)—Dag Hammarskjöld, U. N. secretary general, opened the world's second atomic-for-peace conference today with an appeal for international agreements in the infant field of industrial atomic power.

He spoke to scientists from 60 nations here for the second World Conference on the Peaceful Uses of Atomic Energy, held under U. N. auspices.

He singled out the need for a world code on safety standards in atomic power plants as one possibility.

He spoke enthusiastically of the growing breakdown in secrecy barriers around national atomic research efforts.

Francis Perrin, France's high commissioner for atomic energy and president of the conference, read messages from the leaders of the United States, Britain, France, Canada, the Soviet Union and India.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev's message injected a political note with a new call for a ban on nuclear weapons. This is not on the agenda for the 5,000 scientists here.

Khrushchev said the conference will lead to increased collaboration and an increased exchange of information but added this will give much greater fruit if it is accompanied by an agreement to ban atomic weapons.

President Eisenhower's message predicted the conference would show us how to use atomic energy more safely and beyond our present imagination.

Perrin said the conference should help reduce the antagonism between the great nations' continuously made more bitter by the atomic arms race.

Congress Acts on Law of the Land — Faubus

By ROBERT E. FORD

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Gov. Orval Faubus declared Sunday that his statement that the 1954 Supreme Court integration ruling is the law of the land was forced from him by the White House.

He said Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams and Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark.) demanded he make the acknowledgment before the White House would consent to a conference on Arkansas' integration crisis.

"Because I said it didn't make it so," the governor said in a nationwide television interview.

The conference at Newport, R. I., was held in an atmosphere of tension and bitterness and nothing useful came from it.

At President Eisenhower's vacation headquarters at Newport today, press secretary James G. Hagerly declined comment on Faubus' contention his 1957 statement was forced from him by the White House.

The matter came up at a Hagerly news conference.

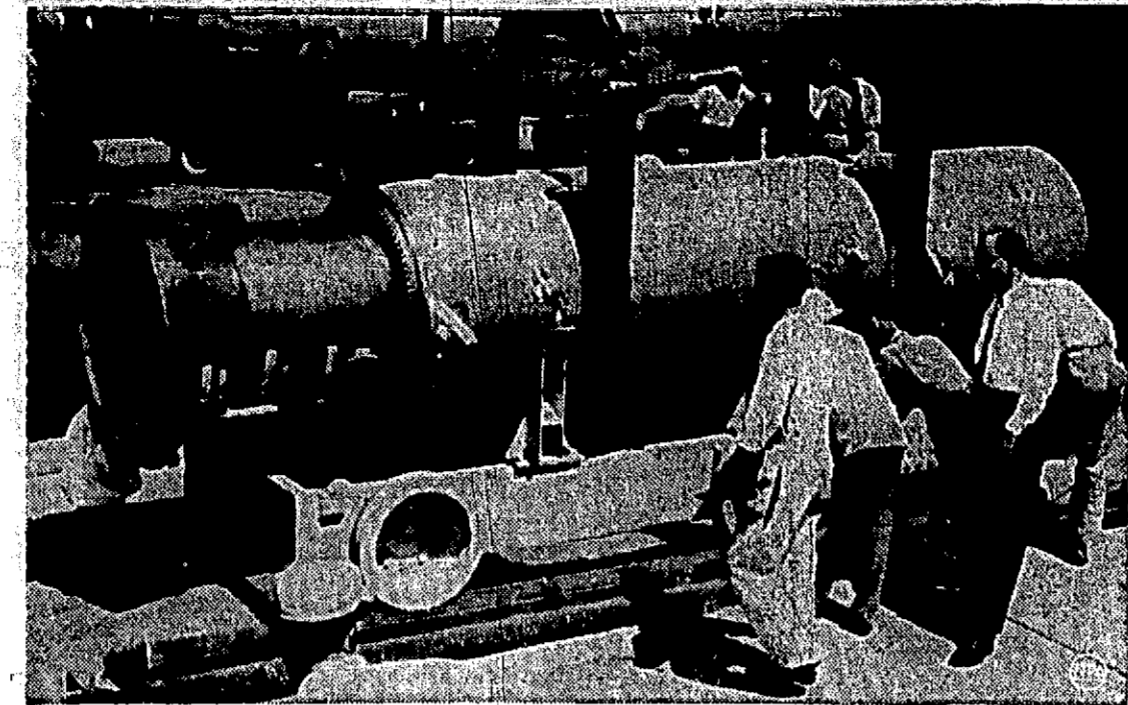

"The exchange with reporters went like this: 'On year, I have sent what Gov. Faubus says.'"

Reporter: "What comment do you have?"

Hagerly: "I think the only comment I have is no comment. You wouldn't print my comment, I feel like giving."

Reporter: "Well, let me ask you the direct question: Did the White House force Faubus to make his statement?"

Hagerly: "That's all I'm going to say on Gov. Faubus."

Race Rioting Again Breaks Out in England

LONDON (AP)—More than 500 Londoners fought with knives, clubs and broken bottles last night in a fresh outburst of violence against London's growing Negro population.

In the Robin Hood city of Holmham, 120 miles from the capital, 1,000 whites moving on the city's colored quarter clashed with police patrols. Twenty-four arrests were made.

Terrified Negro residents of London's Notting Hill district barricaded themselves in their homes as the howling mobs stormed outside, throwing rocks and bottles at the windows.

Thirty squad cars were rushed to the riot area with reinforcements and assault dogs. Three men including a Negro were hospitalized with knife wounds.

Eighteen Negroes arrested and charged with various offenses, including the murder of a white woman, were released after the streets early this morning. Four-man riot squads patrolled the area.

It was London's second straight night of race terror and the worst since World War II. Saturday night some 200 whites and West Indian immigrants battled for three hours at Notting Hill.

The race violence is due to increased immigration to Britain from overcrowded, backward parts of the commonwealth coupled with rising unemployment which has made the lower-class worker fearful of competition. There is no restriction on immigration into Britain from the rest of the commonwealth.

The trouble last night started shortly after the pubs closed for the night. A mob of 100 youths armed with sticks, iron bars and knives gathered under a railroad bridge and marched noisily toward streets where many Negroes lived.

Soon the streets became a mass of people. Housewives in aprons joined the mob, shouting and waving their arms.

Savage fights broke out in several streets. Banner headlines and editorials reflected the shock at the new race violence, which started in Nottingham a week ago.

"For many years," said the Daily Express, "the people of Britain have watched the color problem of the United States and South Africa with an almost morbid and somewhat superior detachment."

"No longer so."

Mesa Verde National Park Was Magic Place for Newsboys on Last Leg of Trip West

EDITOR'S NOTE: This final field story on Hope Star's newsboy safari was submitted from Mesa Verde National Park, Aug. 27 and arrived in Hope Saturday, Aug. 30, too late for that edition — meanwhile, Washburn, Rogers and party had beaten it home, arriving at 11 p.m. Friday.

By A. H. WASHBURN, Editor & Publisher

MESA VERDE NATIONAL PARK, Colorado, Aug. 27 — "Mesa Verde" means "green landscape" and so it is, a green and hospitable plateau nearly 2,000 feet above the semi-arid fields of southwestern Colorado.

Here our newsboy safari camped last night at 8,572 feet. This is a 2,000-foot difference in elevation — sufficient to precipitate additional rain from passing clouds and so Mesa Verde was good to the Indians who found it and lived there for thousands of years.

They prospered, that is, until disaster struck in the form of a great drought. Archeologists fix the drought as occurring between 1276 and 1298. Those 22 terrible years destroyed the paradise that was Mesa Verde.

Where these drought-stricken people went, and what eventually happened to them, our generation doesn't know, although the scientists are still on the story's trail.

This afternoon Rogers and I and the five newsboys — John Whitlen, Jimmy McGuire, Danny Hatfield, Leon Prince, and Edward O'Steen — have been acting out the role of a second generation of cliff dwellers.

We have been going down worn staircases with a thousand steps leading to the dwellings we have climbed vertical ladders and shinned down ropes. It has all been venturesome and fascinating, even for me, with two cameras and five lenses on my person while descending into depths no adult has any business risking.

But we have the pictures, in both color and black-and-white, of one of the great dramas of America's youth before the white men ever knew her.

Tomorrow (Thursday) we close the Mesa Verde chapter and start someplace new. Albuquerque, Amarillo and Texarkana, regarded from all of us.

Indonesia Now Has 20 Political Parties

JAKARTA (AP)—Indonesia now has 20 political parties. The latest is the revised Partai, which its leaders say is once Marxism as adapted to Indonesia.

It was dusted off and restored after a 22-year lapse. Partido had been disbanded in 1936 under pressure from the Dutch who then ruled the islands.

Here is the tabled high plateau on which unknown tribes of Indians sought refuge 2,000 or perhaps 10,000 years ago, protected from outside enemies by the inaccessible crags of the plateau.

Formosa Shelling Light, U. S. in New Warnings

By SPENCER MOGSA

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The Chinese Nationalists claimed today their big guns on Quemoy sank three Red gunboats and eight motorized junks in an all night barrage in the Amoy Bay area.

The Nationalists said five other Communist gunboats were damaged in the shelling between 9:30 p.m. Sunday and 6 a.m. Monday.

The Reds, meanwhile, ended up once more on their shelling of Nationalist offshore islands. But the United States and Russia kept up a barrage of warnings.

With their new artillery attack in its 10th day, the Red guns around Amoy fired only 386 shells at the Quemoy Islands between midnight and 2 p.m. This was a far cry from the record 41,000 rounds Aug. 23.

The latest American word salvo came from Army Secretary Wilbur Brucker, who told a news conference in Taipei recent statements by President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles were a definite warning.

He said they spoke for the people of the United States and the Communists should not take their words lightly.

Eisenhower so far has committed the United States 7th fleet to defend the offshore islands only if day and continues to Monday night.

The Newport smashup fulfilled the police prediction in a few rending, flame-filled seconds.

All six victims were burned so badly that identification was impossible immediately. Several hours after the accident, police said it might be Tuesday before occupants of one car were identified.

The Oil Trough residents, all occupants of one car, were identified as Terrell James, 19, his 14-year-old brother, W. A. James, Paul Ray Robertson, 25, and Don Tucker, 24.

Li Bill Walker, commander of the State Police Newport headquarters, said W. A. James was driving.

Walker said that both cars bore California license plates and the one occupied by the Oil Trough men was believed owned by Terrell James, who the officer said was home on leave from service.

Walker said James probably had registered the car while serving in California.

The only clue to the identity of the two men in the other vehicle one flipped upside down on the other, Walker said. Both burst into flames and fire blocked the highway for an hour.

Six Persons Are Killed in Crash Near Newport

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A fiery two-car collision near Newport yesterday took six lives and boosted Arkansas Labor Day weekend death toll to nine. Four of the traffic accident victims were from Oil Trough.

The holiday toll brought the weeks count to 17 violent deaths, including 11 in traffic mishaps.

The weekend toll included six in traffic accidents, one by drowning and two from miscellaneous causes.

State Police had predicted that six persons would die on Arkansas highways during the holiday period that began at 6 p. m. Friday and continues to Monday night.

The Newport smashup fulfilled the police prediction in a few rending, flame-filled seconds.

Nation's Traffic Deaths May Set a New Record

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic 300 Drowning 67 Miscellaneous 55 Total 422

The mounting highway death toll today rose close to a preholiday pattern estimate which would bring 420 Labor Day weekend traffic fatalities.

At 1 p.m., on Labor Day, year ago, the toll stood at 342, with the final count reaching 445 for the three-day period.

Highways were jammed in many areas today as millions turned homeward from outings on summer's last extended holiday.

The National Safety Council, which estimated 420 traffic deaths for the 78-hour period from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight tonight, had this word for homebound motorists:

Only a lot of good common sense, patience and old-fashioned courtesy can pull the toll down below our estimate. Traffic officers are working around the clock this weekend to save lives. It seems only fair that drivers, themselves, should cooperate.

The count of America's Labor Day holiday traffic deaths clocked faster today than safety engineers had predicted.

Millions of motorists jammed highways in summer's last long weekend and traffic deaths averaged 10 per hour from 3 p.m. Sunday to 1 a.m. today. Earlier the trend appeared averaging below the estimate of 420 deaths for the 78-hour holiday period.

The National Safety Council, which had predicted the toll, expressed concern at the sharp upturn in motor vehicle deaths during the late afternoon and night.

If the rate continued, the council said, the total would surpass its pre-holiday estimate of 420. The council said such a toll would be 70 deaths more than the 350 that occur on a weekend in which there is no holiday.

The holiday period was still to come with millions of motorists homeward bound during the afternoon and evening. The council, cautioning motorists to use extreme care in driving in the premise Court.

 He said Congress has not acted on the school integration-segregation controversy, therefore it is not a law of the land.

He quoted a 1937 federal circuit court decision on another matter which said a particular ruling was not the law of the land under consideration nor the law of the land.

Asked if he believed a governor must accept and support a federal court ruling, Faubus replied: "Abraham Lincoln disagreed with the Dred Scott Case. There are many people in the United States and Arkansas who firmly believe the Supreme Court had no authority for its 1854 decision."

The Little Rock School Board, meanwhile, found itself between two great pressures.

One is to open Central High School Sept. 8. To do so would permit the board to enforce segregation under current federal court orders.

The other is to delay opening until Sept. 15—the date the U. S. Supreme Court expects the school to open.

The court cannot rule until Sept. 11 on whether the Little Rock schools may have as much as 2 1/2 years to resume integration or whether they must integrate immediately.

School board members may decide Tuesday when to open. Gov. Faubus sat tight on a sheaf of segregation measures passed by the legislature last week in a special session.

He has not signed them, since they cannot be attacked in the courts until he affixes his signature. He plans to use them strategically as he needs them to counter any measures by the federal government to enforce integration.

The chief one calls for him to close any school facing forcible integration. He then could lease the school to a private corporation which presumably would be outside the Supreme Court desegregation order. The state would pay tuition for students to the private corporation.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus says acts of Congress are the laws of the land and that Congress has not yet acted on school integration.

The governor made the statement while answering questions on a panel interview (CBS's Face The Nation) which highlighted a weekend of verbal charges and countercharges in the nation's integration crisis.

A questioner pointed out that Faubus said last year after conferring with President Eisenhower at Newport, R. I., that he would support the U. S. Supreme Court decision outlawing segregation in the public schools.

I really haven't changed my mind," the governor said. I was required to issue that statement as a basis for negotiations with the White House. Because I said it didn't make it so."

Faubus said Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark.) and Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams insisted a statement be drafted saying the 1954 decision to the high tribunal was the law of the land.

The governor did not reply directly to a question asking if he could take it upon himself to interpret a decision of the Supreme Court. But, he said, if Congress had passed a law, it would be the law of the land and there would be no question of enforcement.

In reply to another question, Faubus said he would close Central High School in Little Rock if necessary for the peace and the community," should the Supreme Court order the school integrated.

The court has set Sept. 11 as the date to hear further oral arguments on Little Rock. A bill passed at a special session of the Arkansas legislature would delay opening of Central High until Sept. 15. But Faubus has not signed the measure and the school could open Sept. 8—before a decision by the court.

A somewhat similar situation appeared to be developing in Virginia, where schools open Thursday; Norfolk, where schools are due to start Sept. 8, and Charlottesville, where the school year is now set to begin Sept. 15.

School authorities in all three communities have been ordered to begin integration at the start of the September term by the federal courts. They also are faced with Virginia's massive resistance laws which automatically provide for the closing of any integrated school. Legal maneuvers are expected during the week in an effort to resolve the situation.

DeLoach, Waller, Reuther blamed the defeat of a labor control bill on an unholy alliance of big business reactionaries, anti-labor politicians and a few corrupt labor leaders.

Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers Union, was referring to the bill by Sens. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) and J. Lee McClellan (D-N.Y.) which was passed

Reuther again called on Eisenhower to convene a national conference of labor, management and government leaders to draft a program for full employment and to fight inflation.

AFL-CIO President George Meany touched on a different problem in his Labor Day statement.

Attacking racial segregation in schools, Meany said: "The segregated school poses an artificial barrier to our nation's progress in education."

Meany also urged a federal school construction program to provide new jobs, higher teacher salaries and government-financed scholarships.

Russia, would give "Red China moral and material help" if there is a clash over the offshore islands.

The paper, whose editorials usually carry the full weight of the Kremlin, accused the United States of preparing to intervene in a Chinese domestic affair and warned that any aggression by the United States in the Far East would "inevitably sharpen the whole international situation and lead to a spread of war."

Those who threaten today to attack the Chinese People's Republic, Pravda cautioned, must not forget that they also threaten the Soviet Union because the Soviet Union is bound to the people of China with unbreakable bonds of fraternal friendship and cooperation, the basis of which is their determination to safeguard peace among the peoples and repel aggressors.

Brucker, who wound up three days of conferences with President Chiang Kai-Shek, other Nationalist leaders and American military chiefs in the area, told newsmen the United States intends to supplement American military aid to Chiang's forces.

He stressed he was speaking on a long-term basis, however.

We are allies and partners in the fight for freedom," he said.

Brucker left this afternoon for Hong Kong on route home.

Dyess Colony Has First Homecoming

DYESS, Ark. (AP)—This east Arkansas town, built 24 years ago as a depression era model colony, celebrated its first homecoming Saturday.

About 500 persons, most of them graduates of the Dyess Colony High School, gathered on the campus for the day-long reunion and picnic.

Dyess Colony was set up in 1934 by the federal government to give about 400 farm families homes and farm jobs—a new lease on life.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt presided at the dedication. The town was named for the late W. R. Dyess, who was Arkansas relief director.

At first, Dyess Colony (now shortened to just Dyess) consisted of 600 20-acre farms, including homes, barns and other farm buildings. Later the units were recombined into 300 40-acre farms.

Farms on the 1,000-acre development were sold on a no down payment plan to farmers who had lost their land and homes in the depression.

Present at the reunion were three of the Mississippi County community's original settlers—J. H. Balch, Dewey Cox and Troy Stansbury.

Stansbury, who moved here the day the development was started, also celebrated his 70th birthday Saturday.

"I was the first man to make a payment on a place and the first to make a crop without a mortgage," he boasted.

The Dyess school was at one time the largest co-operating school in the world.

When the colony opened there was a 32-bed hospital, a weekly newspaper, a bank, several grocery and variety stores. In 1938 there were 1,500 attending school. The population began to fall off in the early 1940s when people began leaving for industrial centers to take defense jobs.

Nowadays there are less than 200 living in Dyess though about 2,000 live on the farms in the original colony development.

Iceland Boats Almost Tangle With British

By EDDY GILMORE

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP)—Iceland charged today a British warship forcefully interfered with the arrest of a British trawler violating this country's new 12-mile fishing limit.

A Coast Guard statement distributed by the Icelandic Foreign Ministry said: Early this morning a Coast Guard ship moved against trawlers violating the 12-mile limit, but one British warship used force in preventing the Coast Guard vessel from approaching the guilty trawler.

The frigate Palliser sailed full steam with guns manned between the Coast Guard vessel and the offending trawler, thus preventing approach to the trawler.

The Coast Guard said there have been no further incidents, but the names of all British trawlers inside the 12-mile limit have been recorded and their cases will be handled as usual.

Iceland usually imposes heavy fines against the captains of trawlers violating territorial waters. Iceland also confiscates all fish on the trawler, plus its fishing gear.

Earlier, Reykjavik radio reported the Palliser had a clash with two Icelandic gunboats.

It said a clash was avoided because the Icelandic boats, with orders not to shoot, steamed away from the scene.

Otherwise, things were peaceful.

The broadcast quoting the Icelandic Fisheries Service said the incident involved the British frigate Palliser and two unnamed Icelandic gunboats.

The broadcast said that two Icelandic armed vessels started to arrest a British trawler fishing within Iceland's new 12-mile limit.

As our gunboats moved in," said the broadcast, the British frigate Palliser hove into view.

The guns on the British frigate were manned," the broadcast said and the frigate showed every sign of using force.

Scientist Killed in New Zealand

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP)—Eric de Bisschop, 66-year-old French scientist-adventurer, was killed Sunday night when his raft was wrecked on a South Sea island reef.

The French navy ministry said the raft Tahiti Nui II was wrecked at Rakahanga. In the northern Cook Islands after a 4 1/2-month journey from South America. De Bisschop overshot his goal, Tahiti, by 1,200 miles.

Four other men on the raft were saved. Details of the mishap were not available.

De Bisschop and his companions left Peru April 13 to sail the 5,000 miles to Tahiti. The raft was made of balsam wood and carried sails. The first Tahiti Nui was another raft on which De Bisschop, an oceanographer who lived in Honolulu, drifted most of the way from Tahiti to South America in 1957 before the raft broke up in a storm and sank 400 miles off Chile.

kind of trouble. The Icelanders did not apocryphally where the incident took place.

Britain has told her fishing trawlers to ignore Iceland's new fishing ban, imposed at midnight. Britain has 60 trawlers in the no-fishing zone under escort of gunboats.

Porkers Start Work for Switch to Winged-T

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—The University of Arkansas football team, which last spring began switching its offense from split-T to winged-T, set out today to complete the job.

Coach Frank Broyles turned out his Razorbacks for the first day of fall practice with the admonition that lots of work lay ahead before the Sept. 20 opener against Baylor at Little Rock.

Broyles expected all 79 of his players to report.

Twice a day drills were scheduled for the next two weeks, with the coach warning his porkers:

"We are no better than we were last spring and we still need a lot of work before our opener."

The change in offense was rated by Broyles as perhaps the biggest factor in this year's program.

Our offense is more complicated in nature than it is T-formation," he said, and this reverse change is a tough one to make.

Broyles expected T-formation to be a single wing with the quarterback playing directly behind the center. A majority of the offensive blocking assignments involve two-on-one contact instead of the conventional T-formation one-on-one.

The roster that faced Broyles today included 12 returning lettermen—five of them halfbacks.

One of the halfbacks, Mike Conney of Tyler, Tex., was switched to quarterback in spring practice to back up Jim Monroe of Texarkana. Monroe was red-shirted in 1957 and is expected to be a starter this year.

The other lettermen, halfbacks are Don Horton of DeWitt, Jim Monty of El Dorado, Billy Kysor of Camden and Don Ritschel of Tulsa, Okla.

Donnie Stone of Fayetteville is the Razorbacks lone letterman fullback.

Six lettermen are back in the line.

They are Billy Tramm of Wilson and Richard Bell of Little Rock at ends, Billy Michael of Blytheville at tackle, Bill Gilbow of Blytheville and John Bales of Terrell, Tex., at guards, and Barry Switzer of Crossett at center.

Roll and Michael are co-captains.

Practice sessions were scheduled from 8:30 to 10 a. m. and from 4 to 6 p. m. daily.

Turley Becomes First 20 Game Winner of Year

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Chicago's Early Wynn, nearing 40, may not be the peerless pitcher he was in his Cleveland heyday, but the White Sox right-hander is still one of the toughest pitchers in the American League.

Wynn, who pitched his first major league game in 1939, turned in one of his finest mound performances Sunday as a two-hit shut-out over the Detroit Tigers.

The solidly-built Alabamian, now residing in Nokesville, Fla., simply overpowered the Tigers as he struck out 7 and gained his 12th victory against 13 losses.

Wynn now owns lifetime totals of 247 triumphs, 36 shutouts and 1,883 strikeouts. No active pitcher has more victories or strikeouts.

Wynn, who owns more shutouts, has four shutouts this season and is tied with New York's Bob Turley for the American League lead in strikeouts with 149.

Turley became the first pitcher in the majors to win 20 as the Yankees barely beat Washington 7-6 to retain their 10½ game margin over Chicago. The Boston Red Sox shaded Baltimore 3-2 and Cleveland nipped Kansas City 3-2 in 11 innings.

Detroit's two hits off Wynn were cleanly hit. The Sox sewed up the game in the first when singles by Nellie Fox, Jim Landis and Billy Boone and a sacrifice fly by Billy Goodman produced two runs.

Turley had a four-hitter and the Yankees were leading 6-1 when the Senators chased the fire-balling right-hander in stop the threat without a run but he left in the eighth when the Senators rallied once.

Trailing 7-2 in the ninth, Washington rallied for four runs and just missed getting the equalizer. Three singles produced a run before Norm Zahnle smacked his Murry Dickson replaced Johnny Kucks at this point and put two runners on base via a hit batman and a walk. Herb Flaws, however, grounded out to end the game.

Hoyt Wilhelm allowed Boston only five hits but two came in the seventh inning, along with a disastrous balk to provide the Red Sox with the winning run.

Frank Malzone opened with an infield single and was forced by Jackie Jensen. A balk put Jensen on second and he scored on a single by Jimmy Piersall. Tom Brewer won his fifth straight.

Two home runs by Rocky Colangelo gave Cleveland its victory over Detroit and one by Minnie Minoso gave Cleveland its victory over Kansas City.

The Indians trailed 2-0 when Calisto hit his first homer off Ralph Terry, to the seventh. Rocky walloped his 34th with two out in the ninth to tie the score. Minoso's homer, his 20th of the season came in the 11th and was only the fifth hit off Terry, who lost his 11th against eight victories. Morrie Martin, who had stopped the Athletics with the bases full and one out in the 10th in two days.

Writer Expelled From Jordan

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—Brian Wright, correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph, was expelled from Jordan Sunday.

The British newspaperman said he was given no reason for the sudden expulsion but thought it might be for a story he wrote several days ago in which he described King Hussein as considerably more popular than Premier Samir Rifai.

Wright was the second correspondent expelled from the country since the recent lifting of censorship.

Feel Minor Loops Ready to Collapse

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A national survey of minor league baseball writers showed Sunday most of the scribes believe their loops are about ready to collapse for lack of financial support.

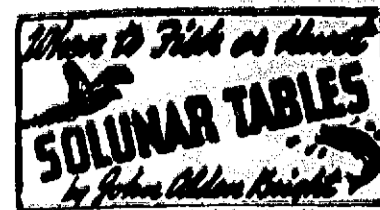

A Nashville Tennessee survey covered writers and editors around six of the top minor league baseball circuits—International League, American Assn., Southern Assn., Texas League, Western League and South Atlantic League.

Of 42 newsmen responding to the questionnaire, 28 told the Tennessee survey they believe minor league baseball as we know it today is through.

Most of the blame in one form or another was placed on major league shoulders.

New Manager Doing Well for Redlegs
By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

General Manager Gabe Paul of Cincinnati doesn't have to look any further than his clubhouse when the time comes for him to consider a manager for the Redlegs in 1959. The fellow who is acting as interim manager — James Joseph Dykes — is doing a whale of a job, just about the best in the majors.

When Dykes took over last Aug. 14 after Birdie Tabbett's sudden resignation, Paul announced that the 61-year-old coach would fill in until a full-time manager was named. He made it plain Jimmy would not manage the Redlegs in 1959.

Paul might be in the mood to change his mind today following Cincinnati's sweep of a Sunday doubleheader from Philadelphia 6-2 and 7-3.

The double triumph not only secured the Redlegs' fourth place position but extended the club's streak to six straight. Cincinnati has a 12-6 record since Dykes took over. Only Milwaukee has done as well in both majors. The Redlegs were last on Aug. 14.

Milwaukee opened up an 8½ game lead, as rookie right-hander Carlton Willey shut out Pittsburgh 2-0. The San Francisco Giants tied the Pirates for second place, drubbing the Los Angeles Dodgers 14-2. Chicago whipped St. Louis 8-5 to vacate the cellar.

Two home runs by Ed Bailey helped Harvey Haddix gain his opener. Johnny Temple also drove in three runs with a pair of hits. Don Newcombe went all the way in the second game for the Redlegs for his third straight triumph. Jerry Lynch's three-run homer off Robin Roberts in the seventh broke a 3-3 tie.

Willey, brought up by Milwaukee in mid-July, from Michigan stopped Pittsburgh with two hits for his ninth victory and fourth shutout. Ronnie Kline was the loser. Red Schoendienst's single, a wild pitch and two infield outs, furnished the first Milwaukee run in the first inning. Wes Covington singled in the other.

Bob Schmidt drove in six runs and hit a grand slam homer as the Giants made it three in a row and 13 out of 17 against Los Angeles. Willie Mays hit his 25th home run as Stan Miller won his fourth with an eight-hitter. Sandy Kousser, the first of four Dodger pitchers, was the loser.

Wall Morin, whose pinch-hit home in the 10th beat St. Louis Saturday night, did it again for the Cubs Sunday. He slammed a two-run homer in the seventh to break a 5-5 tie.

Taylor Phillips, who replaced starter Moe Drabowsky in the third, was the winner with Billy Musser, third of four St. Louis pitchers, the loser. The victory moved the Cubs into second place a half game in front of the Phillies.

Arkansas was admitted to the Union June 20, 1836, seven months earlier than Michigan.

New Drop in Farm Prices Plagues GOP

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new drop in farm prices has come along to plague Republicans just when they thought their campaign to regain control of Congress was looking up.

A decline of 1 per cent in the farm price average between mid-July and mid-August left the level nearly 3 per cent higher than a year before.

But it was the third straight month in which the Agriculture Department reported a price drop and it put something of a damper on Republican contentions that their chances are improving in the farm belt.

GOP hopes of holding Senate seats this year in Minnesota and Indiana and of recapturing one in Wisconsin may hinge largely on the mood of farmers in those states.

To a lesser extent the economic health of the agricultural community could affect the outcome of similar contests in Michigan, Michigan, New York, California, Ohio and Wyoming.

With this in mind, the Senate Republican Policy Committee has just put into the hands of campaigning members a 1,000-word statement of what it calls the agricultural achievements of the Republican administration—1953-58.

Typical of the claims was the statement that gross farm income in the first half of 1958 was the highest on record—$13,800,000,000.

GOP campaigners were advised to remind their constituents also that farmers in 1954 were benefited by the greatest tax reduction in history.

Recent Republican talk about bending the Democrats in November has been based in part on reports of improved chances of some GOP candidates in the farm areas. The Republicans also are encouraged by the belief that the

Five Helpless Men Survive Hurricane

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—It's almost fatal to be caught in a hurricane in a 47-foot cabin cruiser with no power, no steering and no radio.

It happened last week to five men—two Navy men stationed in Bermuda and three natives of Bermuda—who were hired to take the cruiser Golden Eye from Bermuda to New Jersey.

Captain of the craft was Delain Barrett of Kermor, Pa. The other crewmen were Carl Cotton of Atlanta, Ga., and the three Bermudians—Wilfred Woolley, Ross Robinson and Christopher Brimmer.

They left Bermuda Aug. 23 in fair weather. About 90 miles off Ambrose Light, N. J., at approximately 9 a.m. last Monday, the Golden Eye lost her engines, her steering and her radio.

She drifted in the Atlantic until Thursday when Hurricane Daisy swept up the coastline.

Hurricane Daisy hit us pretty hard about 6 in the evening," Barrett said in an interview Sunday night.

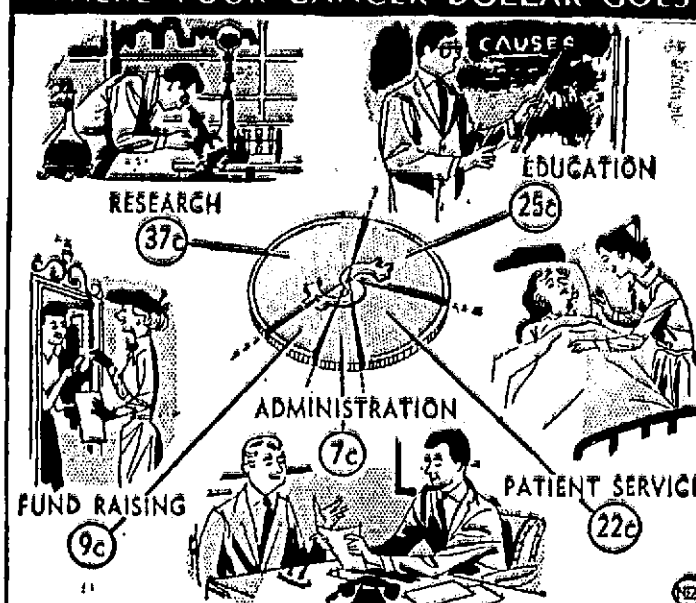

The waves were about 25 to 40 feet. One wave would pick you up and another would shove you back about 40 feet. It was pretty bad. I don't think anybody would want to experience that.

Barrett said that about midnight we were beginning to doubt whether we were going to stay up much longer. We took on a lot of water. We had to put a watch on all night.

The Swedish tanker Josefina Thorden discovered the drifting cruiser early Saturday and radioed the Coast Guard. The cutter Campbell, en route to Bermuda from New York, altered course and took the Golden Eye in tow Saturday about 5 a.m.

Early Sunday, the cutter Cherokee from Norfolk took over from the Campbell and brought the Golden Eye here.

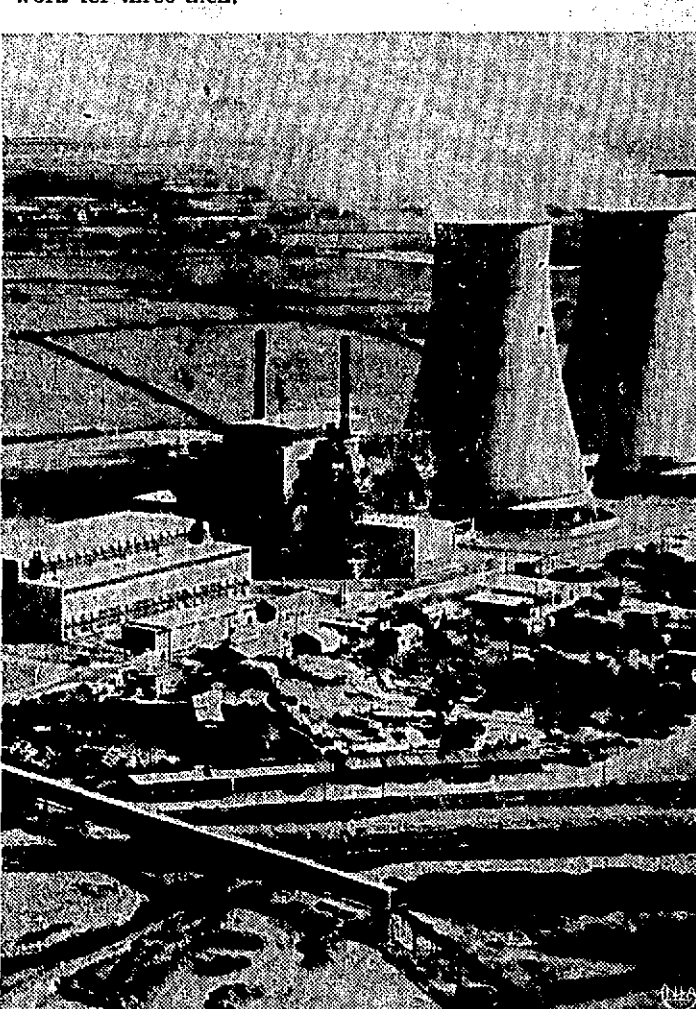

WHERE YOUR CANCER DOLLAR GOES

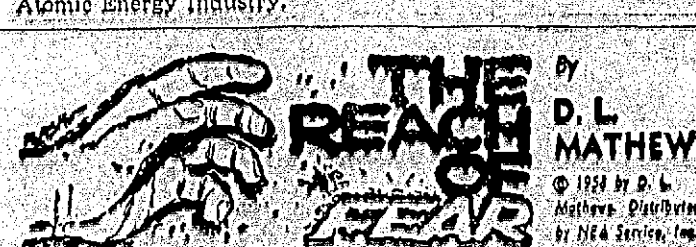

EVERY CENT HELPED—The American Cancer Society reports that in fiscal 1957, it took in 33 million dollars and spent 31.6 million. (The extra 1.4 million was added to the Society's "kitty" balance. How contributors' individual dollars were used on the medical battlefield is shown above. The 1957 Cancer Crusade brought in 29.6 million dollars from the public, the remainder coming from legacies, endowments and other sources.

AWAY FROM IT ALL—A city visitor, taken by the lovely pastoral scene on this farm near Belleville, Wis., idles away an hour or two against a shock of oats. Each shock contains about 12 sheaves wrapped with binder twine. The job was a day's work for three men.

SYMBOL OF A NEW AGE—An impressive landmark rising against a background of quiet English fields are these huge stacks—landmark also in man's search for peaceful uses of atomic energy. They are part of the Calder Hall nuclear power station in Great Britain, which generates electricity on an industrial scale. World Health Organization photo, courtesy U.K. Atomic Energy Industry.

Chapter XXXI

Craig Jansson didn't dare start his car, but managed to push it enough so it would coast on the slight incline of the street. He couldn't remember how he managed to get on the wrong side of the street, but it was too late to worry about it now.

The car rolled to a halt part way across his drive, but it would have to do.

There was little point in stalling any longer, so he walked to the door and opened it as quickly as he could.

"That you, Craig?" Callie called from the kitchen. Callie had something to talk about. He passed a shaking hand over his eyes and wondered how he would stand it, but he didn't dare leave until he found out what Helen Verhey would do when she got hold of herself.

Callie came in looking calm and cool. "I'm glad you're home," she said. "I've been so nervous about all that. First poor little Bruce and now this, it's getting so I'm afraid to listen

He remembered taunting her for the way she looked and hating her for looking that way. He could see her terror, accompanied by her inability to understand why he should do her harm.

The dead was there in its road, for clarity and he realized the hard core of self-disgust would last for a long time, but for now the most important thing was self-preservation.

Callie, with her usual lack of interest, noticed none of his distress. I'll put your dinner on and then run over and see if there's anything I can do. The poor thing shouldn't be alone at a time like this.

No, he gasped involuntarily. You stay away from there. She looked at her husband in amazement. Craig. You can't mean that. The woman was widowed today. It isn't Christian to ignore her.

Callie shook her head as though trying to understand, and looked across the street again. Oh, there's a car stopping there now. W-w-who is it? she whispered. Just a minute, I can't tell yet. Oh yes. It's Dr. Spencer. Well, he can help her more than I can. Come along and wash, I'll put something to eat.

His mind was in a turmoil. Would the doctor report what he found? He tried to think, but he couldn't be sure how badly he had hurt her. He didn't know. He didn't know anything.

He had just reached the bedroom or when he heard a siren in the distance. He clung to the doorjamb, not wanting to believe his ears, but hearing it get louder and louder. Perspiration broke out all over him, and he began to shake like a palsied thing.

Craig, Callie called, there's another emergency car coming down our street. You don't suppose there could have been another murder, do you?

He was totally unable to answer. Supposing he had killed her? He couldn't be sure that she hadn't been badly hurt and died after he left.

"Craig," Callie's shrill voice piped again, its an ambulance and it's stopping at the Verheys. I told you I should have gone over."

He heard the front door open and close.

He staggered to the window and watched Callie follow the ambulance attendants to the house where the doctor stood waiting. The men in white uniforms spoke briefly with the doctor, then hurried outside talking. In a matter of minutes the men had Helen loaded into the ambulance, the doctor beside her, and were gone.

Callie watched until they were out of sight, then turned and walked slowly to her own home. Craig thought his heart would choke him as he waited for her to come. When she did, he asked in a high thin voice, "What happened?"

"I don't really know. The doctor didn't say anything except that it was an emergency. He looked different, though. Rather stern and worried. Not like him at all."

Did Mrs. Verhey talk to you?" She seemed to be unconscious. Poor unhappy woman. Losing her husband in such a tragic way must have been too much for her."

Craig went to the bedroom. He had a lot to think about. (To Be Continued)

In the days of the Roman republic, the people looked chiefly to their senate to decide and guide them. The word "senate" comes from the Latin word for "old" or "old man." It indicates the Roman view that the senate was to be composed of wise, elderly men.
